Notifications go directly to the right person

New notifications go exclusively to the people who are assigned to handle them.

Scheduler

With this feature, you can set up notifications according to escalation levels. The first scheduled employee receives a notification when an alarm occurs. If the employee does not acknowledge the alarm, he/she will receive a number of reminder notifications (depending on the notification settings). Subsequently, a second employee will be notified if someone is scheduled in the second escalation level.

The benefit is that new notifications go exclusively to the people who are assigned to handle them and no longer to all users. This cuts confusion and speeds up the handling of an alarm. It is also possible to add people to the schedule who should receive notifications for information on all activating alarms from the alarm groups linked to the schedule. A manager for example.

Benefits of the Scheduler

- ✓ Efficiently create and manage schedules
This allows users to assign multiple sites, and add alarm groups to them.
- ✓ Inform the right people
Notifications are sent and received, depending on user preferences and rules.
- ✓ Navigate through different views
Increase viewing options with different granularity (day, month or year).
